TRIED TO WRECK

A Car on the Toledo, Bowling Green & Southern R'y.

On Sunday night last, an attempt was made to wreck a car on the T. B. G. & S. electric line near Jerry City. The car was in charge of Motorman Donnan and Conductor Householder and running at full speed. It struck an obstruction and Motorman Donnan was thrown off his feet into the air. Fortunately the car did not jump the track but continued on its course until stopped by the Motorman.

An examination showed that some miscreant had torn up a bridge which crossed a ditch and had piled four of the two-inch planks across the track. Whether they were piled one on the other or had been laid singly across the track, is not known. It is probable, however, that they had been laid singly, as it seems impossible that the car should have kept the track had they been piled one on the other. When the car arrived at Jerry City it slid off on the left track instead of the right, as the switch had been turned by someone who was evidently determined on wrecking the car.

TOLEDO AMUSEMENTS.

"When London Sleeps." "When London Sleeps" is the title of James H. Wallick's great English drama which will be at the Lyceum the last of the week, commencing Thursday matinee, by a strong company of players. This most successful work is from the pen of Mr. Charles Darrell, an English playwright of wonderful ability who has shown much cleverness in working out a plot full of startling situations and interesting climaxes.

"On the Stroke of Twelve." The melodramatic success of the past two years, "On the Stroke of Twelve," the sensational comedy drama, which Whitaker and Lawrence will present in this city at Burt's for three days commencing Thursday matinee, contains in the fourth act one of the most complicated stage sets ever used. It shows the interior and exterior of Moses Levi's pawnshop. The interior is divided into four rooms, two on the first floor and two on the second, and the action is carried on in all four apartments at once.

PERSONAL AND IMPERSONAL

It is the intention of the women's clubs in New York to incorporate in that state at least one village library every month.

"Ponty" is the nickname by which J. Pierpont Morgan is frequently addressed by his wife. No one else dares to use the diminutive in speaking to or of him, however.

Lord Lamington, who has been chosen as the new governor of Ceylon, gets the blue ribbon of British colonial appointments. The duties are light, the salary is large, and there is a capital residence.

An examination for pupil teachers was recently held in Natal, and among the questions set in the general information paper was: "What is meant by a 'printer's devil'?" One young lady replied that it meant the censor!

One of the few surviving officers of the old East India company is Gen. Sir Henry Thuermer, who is now living in London at the age of 88. He is very wealthy, as were most of those who "got in on the ground floor" of that famous trade monopoly.

Dr. A. Kuyper, the new premier of Holland, is one of the broadest minded and strongest intellectual forces of Queen Wilhelmina's domain. He was made an LL. D. of Princeton university in 1898 and it was through his influence that a free university, uncontrolled by the state, was founded in Amsterdam some years ago.

Emile Olivier, who will be known to everlasting fame for his unhappy phrase about "going into war with a light heart," is still, at 76, as combative as ever, and just terminated, not unsuccessfully, his long contest with the French academy. He had the distinction of being the first and last prime minister of France under what was known as the parliamentary government.

In former years Cardinal Gibbons was a frequent visitor to Cape May and usually took long walks morning and afternoon by the seashore. He always wore his cardinal skull cap of scarlet silk, of which an inch or so showed below the rim of his silk hat. One afternoon while he was on the board walk an old lady stopped him and said: "Excuse me, sir, but the lining of your hat has slipped down in the back." The cardinal thanked her gravely, but as soon as she left laughed heartily at her mistake.

NARROW ESCAPE

From Death by Being Caught in the Trolley Rope.

On Friday night last, Conductor Burt Bice narrowly escaped losing his life while working on his car on the Belt line.

As the car was coming off Cherry street bridge in East Toledo, Mr. Bice was attempting to adjust the trolley when the trolley pole became unfastened from the stand and fell to the ground pulling the conductor out the rear end of the car and dragging him along the pavement.

He sustained two gashes on his head and his ankle was badly sprained, but his injuries are not serious and he is now able to be out.

According to the reports of the director of the bureau of engraving

The Postage stamps sent out for use during the current fiscal year includes 1,300,000,000 1-cent stamps, 3,500,000,000 2-cent stamps and 309,236,000 of higher denominations. The total, including special delivery 10-cent stamps, is 5,116,236,000, against 4,377,737,000 for the previous fiscal year, an increase of over 1,500,000,000 stamps.

It is not easy to grasp the full significance of these stupendous totals. A few calculations may help. According to these figures sufficient stamps will be issued this year to supply every man, woman and child in the United States with at least 60 stamps each. Distributed among the population of the entire globe they would supply each person with postage for not less than three letters.

Placed side by side in a continuous line the total issue would girdle the entire earth three times, forming a variegated ribbon around it nearly three inches in width. If spread out in the same manner across the United States the stamps would form a paper sidewalk from New York to San Francisco over three feet wide. Pasted into a stamp collector's book of the conventional size, the issue for the year would fill 500,000 volumes, which, placed one upon another, would form a solid column over 25 miles high. If it is true, as Edward Everett Hale says, that the United States postal system is the greatest of popular educators, these figures will serve to show the extent of Uncle Sam's present service as a school-teacher.

FEEDING STOCK.

[Our Washington correspondent says:]

For sometime, the Department of Agriculture has been conducting an exhaustive series of experiments, both in the laboratory and on the farm into the question of feeding stock. It has now reached a pretty definite conclusion on most of the points involved and is preparing a bulletin which will be issued in a few weeks, setting forth the results in detail. The idea in every case has been to decide which foods give the best results at the lowest cost, the problem of course being varied as the animals vary, what is best for one kind of stock not being best for another and what is best for an animal when young differing from what is best when full grown and this differing again from what it should have when giving milk, for instance, or suckling its young.

There are also differences due to season and climate. To supply food in the right proportion to meet the various requirements of the animal, without a waste of food nutrients, constitutes scientific feeding. It is by carefully studying the composition of feeding stuffs, the proportion in which they are digested by different animals and under different conditions, and the requirements of animals for the various food nutrients when at rest, at work, giving milk, producing wool, mutton, beef, pork, etc., that the principles of feeding have been worked out. The body of an animal is made up of water, minerals, fat, nitrogen in varying proportions. Food stuffs also contain these four substances, also in varying proportions. The problem is to supply an animal with food from which it can obtain by digestion these four things in the exact proportions which should exist in its own body under the particular circumstances under which it is then living. "From which it can obtain" these proportions, not "which contain these proportions," for many foods rich in essential matters are less digestible than others which are poorer; it is not what is eaten but what is digested that counts. Then, too, the amount of heat or energy produced by each food must be taken into consideration. The prob-
